

MODERN MACHINERY.

January 1899

The Two-Pipe System of Air Compression.

A CONSIDERATION OF THE ADVANTAGES CLAIMED FOR IT OVER THE SINGLE PIPE SYSTEM.

BY A. E. CHODZKO.

There is nothing abnormal to an efficiency greater than 1, when reheating is used; this will occur (regardless of pipe and other friction) whenever the temperature of reheating is higher than the temperature of compression.